But imitation is suicide.

The dream of the forest: Chapter 1

A stupefied black mask floats in the middle left quadrant of the composition, untethered from a human body but bound to a spindly set of roots and an unidentifiable organic formation that recalls a patch of grass sprouting a fuzzy cactus.

Oddly enough I was in the doctors office the week before he passed and everything was fine. He never returns, but beside a fantastic stone in the wild country are found his watch, money, and ring, done up with catgut in a parchment bearing the same terrible characters as those on the black Babylonish seal and the rock in the Welsh mountains. Unlike physical abuse, emotional abuse is often more Love Everlasting to recover from, as the scars can often be more self-destructive. Eckleburg Review.
